Hope to Avoid Showdown In Laos Crisis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The tide of civil war in Laos is beginning to run dangerously against American efforts to unify and neutralize that Southeast Asian country. Worried Kennedy administration officials are now trying to give out new moves this country's allies can make to achieve military stalemate and provide fresh basis for diplomatic negotiations. Officials hope to avoid a military showdown with the Soviet Union in Laos, but increasingly is being said privately by authorities here that the United States will never allow the Communist conquest of Laos which would endanger all of Southeast Asia. Unless the situation can be improved from the Western point of view in the next two or three weeks, the United States will have to take a much stronger position than it has so far in trying to bring the civil war under control, responsible authorities say. One possible action under consideration is to give the Soviet government a new warning of the seriousness of American intentions not to settle for anything less than a neutralized Laos. U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson, who returned to Moscow from Washington early this week, is expected to explore the action crisis with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as soon as possible.

HIGH C (FOR CAT)—Tony, the pet of Mrs. George Silfies, Cleveland, Ohio, has been dubbed the coolest cat since Salles. When his mistress practices, Tony nominates himself a one-cat audience. When she turns to Chopin or Brahms he becomes carried away and sings (or looks like it). "He really prefers stringed instruments," says Silfies. "He can curl up and nap inside the cases."

Blue Scout Rocket Test a Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Blue Scout rocket successfully propelled a package of instruments about 1,580 miles into space today to study radiations which pose a threat to manned space travel. Included in the payload were radio telescopes and a simulated piece of human skin. The sleek, 75-foot rocket raced away from this spaceport at 11:02 a.m. Its four solid-fuel engines fired in rapid succession and shot the 172-pound payload to its planned altitude. The payload was to radio back a stream of information until it plunged to a fiery death in the earth's atmosphere as intended about 40 minutes after launch. This occurred over the Atlantic about 1,970 miles southeast of the Cape. The Air Force reported the successful performance of the rocket. Wrapped around a miniature ionization chamber was a quarter-inch strip of lucite, simulating human tissue. Lucite absorbs radiation at the same rate as skin. The experiment could tell scientists much about radiation hazards future space travelers expect to encounter.

JFK Talks of Natural Resources

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today America's great gift of natural resources health provides the foundation upon which defense of freedom rests. Calling anew for development of these resources and conservation of wildlife areas, the President added: "Our future greatness and strength will depend upon the continued abundance of these same natural resources." Kennedy expressed these views in a speech prepared for ceremonies dedicating the new headquarters building of the National Wildlife Federation, observing the 5th anniversary of its founding. "This handsome building—the symbol of past achievement and the headquarters for future progress—was, in large part, made possible by a grant from the estate of a citizen of my own city—Louise Ayer Hathaway of Boston," the President said. "I believe it is significant that a citizen of Massachusetts, now address a society devoted to a program which received its greatest support from two citizens of New York, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin Roosevelt, housed in a building partly provided through the generosity of a native of Boston. It is significant because it dramatically illustrates that the problems of resource conservation are not regional problems or Western problems—they are national opportunities not bounded by geography."

India Offers Brigade to Support U. N.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—India has offered a 3,000-man brigade to help beef up the U.N. Congo command and restore order in the divided African nation. The offer came as leaders of all the anti-Communist Congo factions were meeting on the island of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean to try to thrust out a peaceful settlement of the confused Congolese problem. Rebel chief Antoine Gizenga ignored an invitation to attend and his absence dimmed hopes of progress. India's promise of troops, transmitted to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold by Indian Ambassador C. S. Jha, came on the heels of similar assurances of reinforcements from Liberia and Tunisia. It brings the total of new forces volunteered to about 4,000. Hammarskjold had appealed for more troops to buttress the dwindling U.N. force up to 25,000 he said is needed to keep peace in the chaotic new nation. The original Congo force was about 20,000 and protests against Hammarskjold's policies led to some withdrawals. The present strength is 18,500.

Sending combat troops abroad would set a precedent for India. Units have been used in Jorja, Indochina, the Gaza strip and even in the Congo but only on medical missions, as guards and other non-combatant duties. Nehru had insisted in clarification of Congo policies before agreeing to send troops. He gave approval to passage of a resolution in the Security Council authorizing U.N. forces to head off military clashes and civil war if need be.

Jha said reinforcements for the U.N. were needed to implement this measure. The Indian envoy said it was not easy for India to send a brigade, but "realizing the situation in the Congo and the urgent need for help, the step was decided upon."

He laid down conditions that Indian troops should not be used to suppress popular movements or party factions in the Congo.

Ambassador Adlai Stevenson discussed the Congo issue with Valerian Zorin at a luncheon he gave Friday for the Soviet deputy foreign minister. A U.S. spokesman said Stevenson may meet Monday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who will head the Soviet delegation for the remainder of the Assembly session.

Most delegates agree there will be a long Assembly debate on the Congo, but these preliminary talks may decide what direction the debate will take.

U. S. Ship Is Protested in Scotland

By RONALD THOMSON

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—A U. S. Navy depot ship sailed today into this River Clyde basin to set up a Polaris missile submarine base here under protection of a British warship against a mosquito armada of English pacifists.

The American sub tender Proteus anchored momentarily off Cumbrae Island, 15 miles down river, as demonstrators poured into the Holy Loch area to give a hostile welcome to the 18,000-ton vessel and its 950 crewmen. The British frigate Exmouth was set to repel attempts by pacifists to board the Proteus or blockade its passage after spending the night at buoys reserved for the Proteus.

Before daybreak 16 Scottish youths raided the lockside camp of six English pacifists who had

Robbed Fox Killed In Guernsey Area

A fox that was killed in the Guernsey area had rabies. The fox was killed by Arthur Gray and the head sent to the State laboratory by Dr. Herbert Rogers tested positive for rabies. "Anyone owning a dog bitten by this fox or the stray dog that passed through the Guernsey area should handle these animals with caution," said County Agent Calvin Caldwell. Dogs known to have been bitten should be penned for observation or destroyed. Dr. Rogers says that about six weeks is the average incubation period for rabies in dogs. The county wide dog vaccination program will begin as soon as a shipment of vaccine arrives, the county agent said.

Department Store Sales Increase

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reports that department store sales in the Eighth Federal Reserve District the week ended Feb. 25 were 10 per cent above those of the comparable week of last year.

However there was a wide spread in the highest and lowest sales in the district. St. Louis led the upswing with a rise of 21 per cent, while Louisville, which had nine inches of snow on Feb. 25, fell 22 per cent.

The Little Rock area was up 10 per cent, Memphis, two per cent and sales in seven smaller district cities took a nine per cent rise.

Sales for the four weeks ended Feb. 25 were even with those of the comparable period of last year.

Sales for the year to date still lag 3 per cent below the corresponding period of last year.

Van Dalsem Filibusters Truck Vote

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem staged a 33-minute filibuster today as opponents of a truck weight bill tried to keep it from coming to a vote in the House.

Technically, Van Dalsem was speaking in favor of Garland County Rep. Ray Smith's motion that the House act on a bill to increase truck taxes before it took up the weight measure.

But the voluble legislator spoke principally against the weight bill. "I question the sincerity of these truck people, who don't want to vote on this tax bill before we vote on the weight bill," Van Dalsem said. "I don't think they really want to pass the tax bill."

Van Dalsem noted that it takes 75 votes to pass a tax bill, while only 51 would be needed to pass the weight measure. Van Dalsem insinuated that proponents of the truck weight measure had fallen under the influence of the truck lobby.

This caused Rep. Bernice Kizer of Sebastian County to object that the insinuation insulted her integrity.

Van Dalsem apologized to Mrs. Kizer personally, then said, "This is a knockdown and drag out fight and it may not be any place for a lady."

Once Van Dalsem interrupted his talk to ask Speaker John P. Bethell to "get the lobbyists out of here," Bethell ordered the House floor cleared of everyone except representatives.

Van Dalsem served notice that under House rules a motion is not necessary to bring up a tax bill before a non-tax measure. He said

Gas Taxes Proposal Before PSC

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Public Service Commission today began hearing a proposal of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. to some $80,000 in return for an equalization of the levies.

ArkLa would absorb the proposed increase but if later municipalities added any other tax it would be passed on to the consumers.

ArkLa suggested that it pay a flat $2 a liter tax in 62 Arkansas cities and towns and $1 a liter in 49 others.

This would amount in 1961 to a total of $308,400.

Last year ArkLa paid various municipal taxes totaling $227,878.90, it reported to the commission. Present taxes range from nothing in a number of towns to $75,250 a year in Little Rock.

For most cities and towns the proposal would mean an increase, but some would lose revenue.

Everybody Is Concerned With Health — American Nurses' Group More So Than Many

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

What is the American family's number one problem? Health. Because of this, families as well as people in business and industry are contributing to a research program which will benefit one and all.

Employers and employees alike are concerned with occupational health, and parents and teachers alike are concerned with family health. The American Nurses' Foundation is endeavoring to improve nursing conditions and to expand a nursing research program so that everyone will have better health facilities and treatment.

Many people remember when nursing consisted of little more than an elaborate system of domestic service. It was just before the turn of the century that schools were founded offering regular courses of instruction for American nurses. It was not until after 1900 that standards for licensing nurses were first established.

In the years that followed the nurse's responsibilities and skills both grew. To keep pace with the mounting need for well-trained nurses, the number of nursing schools grew from 35 before 1900 to over a thousand institutions today located throughout the United States and its territories.

Probably no other profession has attained greater maturity in so short a time.

It is highly commendable that the nursing profession is the only profession ever to have financed and conducted a study of its own progress. From 1959 through 1964 a five-year program of study was financed and conducted by the American Nurses Association. It demonstrated the need for continuing a full-time, co-ordinated program of research in nursing practice in the prevention of disease, and in the care of the ill and disabled.

To meet the need for a research center, the American Nurses Association, in 1955, brought into being the American Nurses Foundation. The purpose of this non-profit organization was to identify nursing needs and enrich nursing knowledge urgently required for the proper health care of America's fast growing population.

The American Nurses' Foundation is doing a splendid and challenging job of helping the nursing profession to meet its responsibilities better by providing immediate and developing programs for better nursing and health care for our people.

A local affiliate of this national organization is the Prescott District Registered Nurses Association, consisting of RN's from Prescott, Gurdon, Arkadelphia, Nashville, and Hope. To do its part in the American Nursing Research Campaign, this group is sponsoring a smorgasbord dinner at the Barlow from 5:30 to 8:30 p. m. on Friday, March 10. Tickets are priced at $2 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12 years of age.

Money realized from the smorgasbord will go to the American Nurses' Foundation to help with its program of research. In the long run this will help us all, as it is estimated that the foundation's efforts directly affect the care of more than 25 million Americans each year, or one out of every seven persons throughout the nation.

Mental Test for Carnival Worker

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Kenneth E. Dudley, 47, itinerant carnival worker who has admitted disposing of the bodies of five of his children, starts undergoing psychiatric tests and examinations today.

W. K. Cunningham Jr., Virginia penitentiary superintendent, said Dudley, father of 10 children is getting "a routine check to determine if he's mentally responsible." He said it would take two or three weeks for the tests and Dudley, who has told police he disposed of the bodies after the children died during 2½ years of wandering around the country, is charged in Hanover County, Va., with first-degree murder by starvation in the death of his daughter, Carol Ann, 7. He and his wife, Irene, 44, also are charged in Brunswick County, Va., with causing Carol Ann's death by malnutrition, exposure and neglect.

Sheriff J. B. Vaughan said Carol Ann died in the back seat of the Dudleys' rickety car the night of Feb. 1-12.

Investigation In Explosion That Kills 22

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—

The U.S. Bureau of Mines starts an investigation today in an explosion that killed 22 men in the Viking Coal Mine, 265 feet below the surface.

"The bureau's notice of the investigation, posted in a washroom, announced the mine was being closed because of 'imminent closed of occurrence of mine explosion from gas and/or dust.'"

Officials said they did not know the cause of the explosion that killed the men Thursday night. Miners reported that gas had seeped into the sloped shaft and that several small fires had flared since it was opened about a week ago.

Miners attributed the fires to "green devil" gas seeping from an abandoned section. The fires were put out before they reached dangerous quantities of coal dust.

The burned and mutilated bodies of the miners were brought out of the shaft Friday. Weeping wives and children of the victims had spent the night huddled in the cold near the shaft. Belt numbers were needed to identify the bodies.

R. E. Hudson of Rosedale, a state mine inspector who helped bring out the bodies, said, "They felt where they were working; only a couple tried to crawl—two of them got maybe 15 or 20 feet."

Miners said each of the victims had $15,000 to $20,000 in life insurance under a checkoff plan. Charles Ferguson of Washington, United Mine Workers, safety director, promised emergency help at once for any families left in need.

The UMW said the victims left 52 dependents—widows and children.

The victims included a father-son team Chester B. Gummere, 53, a master electrician, and Jack Gummere, 31. The younger man's widow, who is expecting her third child next month, said the two men worked together because "they were inseparable."

Closing of the Viking left only one deep shaft coal mine operating in the Terre Haute area. At the peak of operations 40 years ago there were 35.

The Viking, opened in 1908, is in desolate hill country eight miles northwest of Terre Haute, and 200 yards from the Wabash River. Its entire output moved by conveyor belt to the nearby Wabash power plant of Public Service Co. of Indiana.

The mine employed about 200 workers. There were only 44 in the shafts Thursday night, but half of them were far away from the point of the explosion and escaped without even hearing it.

Marieta to Brighten UN Group

By JOL MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Marieta Tree, one of President Kennedy's more glamorous appointees, is calculated to brighten the scenery at the United Nations this year while she's getting in some kinks for people who need help.

The newly confirmed U. S. representative to the U. N. Human Rights Commission, sworn a couple of days ago, is a tall, blonde, hazel-eyed socialite with two daughters and a husband who was once a member of the British Parliament.

For all her intensely feminine appearance, Mrs. Tree, 43, holds some intensely unfeminine views: "She thinks shopping is loathsome."

She'd rather be just a member, not the chairlady, of committees "working toward certain defined goals."

In her behalf as a woman, however, let it be said that Mrs. Tree, a wheel in the Democratic party, finds canvassing the most enjoyable part of politics because it's fascinating to see inside so many apartments, especially to he would take this route if the motion were defeated.

Parliamentarian Neill Bohlinger told newsmen that Van Dalsem was correct, but that the weight bill could be called up first if 67 representatives voted to bring it up.

Proponents of the truck bill are believed to have about 60 votes.

The weight bill would boost the load limit from 64,000 to 73,200 pounds. The tax measure would make minor increases in heavy truck license fees.

Little River County Rep. Marion Crank spoke against the motion. "This is just another stall," Crank said. "They are trying to confuse the issue. Defeat the motion because it is the only way we'll get this bill to the floor today."

Earlier the House amended a resolution to change its rules and put off a vote on the measure until Monday. The resolution would reduce the number of House committees from 70 to 24 and would give committees increased authority over pending legislation. The amendment would make committee assignments, which will be made according to seniority, on a basis of lot for representatives with equal seniority.

Trade Heavy Early on Stock Market

By ED MORSE

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market plowed ahead early this afternoon on the heaviest trading of the week. Most gains were moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .50 at 241.20 with industrials up .90, rails up .50 and utilities up .10.

Concentrated buying of lower and medium-priced issues reflected big public buying. At the same time, gains of selected blue chips showed that investment sources were very much in the picture.

Losses in a number of issues indicated profit taking by professionals in stocks which have enjoyed wide advances.

For the first two hours turnover was 2.25 million shares compared with 1.9 million Thursday.

Steels and motors continued moderately higher while the sweeping advance of chemicals which began Thursday foundered into irregularity. The balance was higher among oils, rails and electronics. Coppers, aircraft-missiles and drugs were mixed. Building material issues declined.

New York Central picked up a point, Texas & Pacific Railway spurred 6 and Marshall Field 4.

International Silver fell more than a point, Texas Instruments more than 3, and Ligon Industries and International Business Machines 2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.95 at 671.34. Corporate bonds advanced U.S. governments showed scant change in dull trading.

This Is For Teen-Agers
Who Push the Calendar

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Letters for and against my reply to "Furious" still come. She was the 12-year-old who wore lipstick and believed in kissing her boy friend goodnight.

I told her she was pushing the calendar. After the howls which went up over that mild reproach, the following letters sound a cheerful and reassuring note:

Dear Helen:

I agree with you that 12 and 13 year-old girls do not understand enough about life to date or kiss boys. Thanks to my mother and a boy friend with high ideals I as a teen-ager, had the conviction that kisses should be shared only with someone you love very much; so I saved my kisses. I dated, of course, and I don't think my reservations hurt my status.

I have been married seven years to a wonderful man and we have three little children. My husband is a true companion, considerate and kind, a lover, a good provider and a good father and our love is very deep. I had a girl friend who began dating when she was 12, married at 16 and a mother at 17. Now she is an unhappy woman but she thought when we were teens that I was missing out on life.

It concerns me that teen-agers are dating young, going steady, and marrying young. Aren't there more important "firsts" for teen-agers in this day when the world so desperately needs youth with spirit, convictions of truth and abandonment to a cause?

I am not trying to imply that my happiness is the result of my not kissing boys. There is a more important reason, Jesus Christ, whom to know is to live. —Mrs. John William Vander Hoven.

Dear Mrs. Vander Hoven: Total number of teachers in Arkansas a hundred years ago was 933, or one for every 347 white inhabitants.

Yours is a fine and sensitive answer to "Furious" and all the other little girls who play grown-up too soon.

Dear Helen:

I am 11 years old and agreed when you told "Furious" she was pushing the calendar. Kissing her boy friend goodnight is foolish! Which brings out something else—12 years old is entirely too young to go out at night. I am not even thinking of wearing lipstick at all! For I—Can Wait.

Dear Helen:

I think a girl of 12 should be allowed to have friends. After all I get up at 6, go to school at 8:45, home by 3:10, do housework, cook, pick up, wash and iron for three, then to bed at eight or nine. Don't you think I should be allowed to have friends in my spare time? —Busy Bee

Dear Bush Bee:

Of course you should be allowed to have friends.

But where is your crowded life will you find time for them? Being only 12 and a girl, it would be more appropriate for you to invite these friends to your home than to go out with them, unless in groups and to school games or parties. Show this answer to your query to your parents. Fair is fair. The other members of your family should share the household chores with you. Your handwriting and misspelling is mute evidence of what this overwork is already doing to your studies.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful letters available. Write for "Teen-age Code."

1956. He holds tremendous prestige among the Nationalists and before his capture was known as a moderate. The rebels named him honorary deputy premier in their cabinet, formed after his capture.

Peace Corps Differs From Soviet Group

By JAMES MALOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has nothing similar to the Peace Corps which President Kennedy established Wednesday: Trained young men and women who will help backward peoples develop by living and working with them.

For years the Russians have been sending technicians into backward countries. But American experts on the Soviets say the Russians in other lands are clanish and stay by themselves.

This country, too, sends technicians abroad. But the basic difference between them and the Peace Corps will be this:

Peace Corps members will get no salary—just subsistence wages. They will speak the language of the backward people to whom they are assigned. By example and working side by side with them, they will help them do what the technical advisers only suggest.

Kennedy gave examples of the specific programs to which Peace Corps members can contribute:

Teaching in primary and secondary schools, especially as part of national English language teaching programs; participating on the worldwide program of malaria eradication; instruction and operation of public health and sanitation projects; aiding in village development through school construction; helping local farmers produce better crops by assisting them in the use of modern implements and techniques.

Kennedy said: "The initial emphasis on these programs will be on teaching."

The President did two things in this field Wednesday. He established the Peace Corps by executive order on a temporary basis until Congress by law can create a permanent corps. He asked Congress to do this.

By getting started now, he explained, he thought some of the young men and women could be sent to jobs overseas by late fall. Training, he suggested, can range from six weeks to six months.

He didn't limit the corps to just the young, although he said he thought it would be mostly made up of young people. The government, in addition to giving them subsistence wages, will take responsibility for their health.

How will the program work? In various ways, as Kennedy sees it:

Private organizations and institutions will carry out much of the program, with federal financial help. And the Peace Corps members will be made available to countries which need them in these ways:

Through private voluntary agencies carrying on international assistance programs; through overseas programs of colleges and universities; through assistance programs of international agencies; through assistance programs of the American government; through new programs which the Peace Corps itself directly administers.

The idea of a Peace Corps was suggested in 1960 by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis. Humphrey introduced legislation to establish the corps. And Kennedy endorsed the idea during the 1960 campaign.

Congress in 1960 authorized a study of the project. It was undertaken by the University of Colorado's research foundation. The professors consulted with hundreds of individuals in private organizations, government, and educational institutions. They sent out hundreds of questionnaires. Researchers studied youth corps possibilities in 10 countries in Asia, Africa and South America.

This week a preliminary report was issued—the final one comes in April—and recommended creation of the corps. And Wednesday Kennedy acted.

He believes service in the corps will last from two to three years. Going into the corps won't make a young man draft-proof when he returns home. And when they do come home, according to Kennedy's proposal, they will get some small sum in severance pay to help them live until they find a job.

Kennedy is thinking in terms

Series of Racial Incidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Weeks of Negro demonstrations protesting segregation came to a climax at Columbia, S.C., in a hymn-singing march on the statehouse during which 150 persons were arrested, all but one of them Negroes.

All of the demonstrators, including one white youth and a field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were charged with breach of the peace.

City and county jails held 150 of the marchers today. Bond of $50 each was posted for 31 others Thursday night.

The students marched in small groups to the statehouse, were warned not to demonstrate, and then were arrested when they continued to advance.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis, Mo., ordered the school board at Little Rock, Ark., to speed desegregation of that city's schools, but did not set a timetable.

While conceding the board members were public spirited citizens working under adverse conditions, the court found the board "was motivated and governed by racial considerations"

Chapter XXXVI

Ma'rieta to

notice how they're decorated. And while she hates shopping, she likes clothes "if they're pretty."

Civil rights is her chief concern in the time she spends away from her daughters and her husband, Ronald Tree, now an investment banker broker. "But I have a rule," she says firmly, "that whenever my husband is home, I'm home. And I'm there every afternoon at 5 when my youngest comes home from school."

That's Penelope, 11. Frances Fitzgerald, 20, Mrs. Tree's daughter by her first marriage, attends Radcliffe College, which a grandmother helped found.

She feels her U. N. appointment is her "loftiest job from the point of view of position, but it evolves from my civil rights work. To do a good job I'm just praying I'll have enough courage, brains, stamina and humor—humor especially."

Only five states and one territory in the United States showed a greater percentage of increase in property tax assessments between 1950 and 1950, than Arkansas.

Behind him, the young man nodded again. His eyes came down to meet Jane's for a moment and then, evidently frightened at what they saw, darted away. Trembling now, Jane folded her hands together and put them carefully, almost primly, in her lap.

"Miss Hudson?" The officer's tone held an odd note of courtliness. "Are you Miss Jane Hudson?"

Jane stared down at her hands, at the veins, that coursed crookedly along their backs beneath the slack skin. Without looking up, she nodded.

"Miss Hudson, I'm afraid you'll have to come along with us. There's been a call out for you and your sister since early last night."

His voice was so quiet, so friendly. Jane nodded again, and as he touched her arm, got somehow to her feet. And then, with a sense of surprise, she realized she was crying.

"I'm sorry," the officer said. His hand, holding her arm, guided her out of the booth. "Now where is your sister, Miss Hudson?"

Jane tried hard to concentrate, to understand what he was saying to her. It was important now to understand everything. But her heart kept pounding so thunderously that it made it difficult. His touch, she thought, felt very hot upon her arm; she wanted to pull away, but she knew she dared not.

"... your sister, Miss Hudson," the young officer was saying, his tone suddenly quite insistent. "It will save a lot of time and trouble if you'll tell us where she is right now."

Jane looked up at him. He was not an ugly man, not mean or hateful-looking. But you couldn't go by appearances. Some of the nicest-looking people were really very bad. Blanche was always so beautiful...

"Your sister, Miss Hudson..." the officer was saying "Will you show us where she is?"

Jane nodded. She turned and looked down toward the beach. "She's down there... She's awfully sick. We must hurry!"

She led them in a diagonal path across the beach, moving along rapidly, the three of them close behind her. On all sides heads turned with quick curiosity as they passed.

Jane moved swiftly on through the sea of turning heads. The officer, coming up beside her, touched her arm.

She smiled at first and turned to him.

She turned then and looked at the others, the vast stretch of staring, waiting faces. The young faces, and the old ones, staring, staring...

All at once it all came back to her, in a whole and perfect memory, and it was as if she had finally managed to rouse herself from a deep and troubled sleep. She felt quite, quite wonderful and intensely alive. Turning, she looked about at the hundreds and hundreds of staring faces.

But what did they want of her? What were they looking for so expectantly? Her face felt so warm. Feverish. Why was the light so hot on her face. If she told Daddy...

"Miss Hudson... your sister!"

Bowing deeply, holding her head at just the right angle, she straightened and picked up her skirts. Careful to arch her hands at the wrists, just as Daddy had shown her, she began, very prettily, to dance.

The Hope Bobcats, district co-champs advanced to the finals of the district tourney last night and assured themselves of a state tournament berth by defeating Fairview 67-59 in overtime. They will meet the tourney hosts, the Smackover Buckaroos at 8 tonight in the finals. Smackover advanced by taking Malvern 67-62. Malvern will meet Fairview at 7 to determine the third place district team which will go to state.

The Hope-Fairview game was even almost all during the bout, but Hope led 14-13 at the end of the first quarter. With Arnett taking half of the Cats 16 points in the second quarter, Hope led 30-23 at the half.

The Bobcats had little trouble in the third period and were ahead 49-35 in the third due to the success of their full-court zone press. In the final period, however, the Cardinals counter-punched and outscored the Cats 18-4 pushing Hope into an overtime with the score 53-53. The major Fairview threat was their double-team press, which tied the Bobcats down.

In the three minute overtime the Bobcats sank 12 out of 13 free throws on 7 Cardinal fouls plus 1 field goal to outscore Fairview 14-6 in the overtime. The first four of these seven fouls came from Cardinal Brodnax who scored the two points placing them in an overtime.

One important factor was that Hope fouled only 15 times to Fairview's 23 and sank 21 out of 34 free throws to the Cardinals 11 out of 24. Also the Cats held the top district scorer, Jerry Churchill to 15 points despite the fact he has a 20 point plus district average.

Larry Arnett and Curtis Churchill led the Cats with 16 points each. Calhoun took 15, Robinson 11, Fry 9 of which came in the overtime, and Murphy sank 2.

There were two buses of Hope students supporting the Cats last night. If it is at all possible, all Hope fans should follow the Cats to Smackover tonight and watch them take their co-champs trophy and perhaps the tournament trophy, as well.

massed a canoe fleet to sail into the Proteus' path.

The raiders cut off the young camp guard's beard, dabbed the canoes with the painted slogan "Welcome Yanks," and tossed several canoes over a six-foot wall.

"We don't like you foreigners coming here and creating this kind of disturbance," one Scotsman told the lone guard.

The pacifists later recovered their midge fleet of four canoes and two dinghies.

Along the shore an unidentified clergyman handed out anti-Polaris leaflets, one of the weapons the Scottish Council for Nuclear Disarmament and other groups have used for months to fight plans for the base.

One of the English canoe-fleet pacifists said: "We won't attempt to ram the Proteus, but we won't get out of the way if the Proteus tries to ram us."

Whether the canoes would line up in a blockade was doubtful, since the Exmouth is standing guard and part of the miniature fleet was damaged by the Scottish raiders.

Overall size of a boat is another interesting quality. Some builders like to give gunwale measurements — which is the distance around the curved side of the boat — rather than a straight line from bow to stern. The curved line, being longer, makes the boat sound bigger. Trouble is that the owner needs different licensing when his craft is under or over 16 ft, for instance, so that accurate measurements are important.

The FTC will also be reading through boat builders' ads soon just to be sure unreasonable or deceptive claims are not made. "Lifetime guarantees," "unsinkable hulls," and "maintenance free construction" statements will all get closer attention.

A look at the FTC's new requirements for boat builders shows they all appear to be reasonable and sensible. All are designed to keep the buying public from being deceived. But if these suggestions for statement of load and power maximums goes through, the FTC may prevent some of the buying public from being drowned as well.

While keeping careless boat buyers from being fooled, it looks like the FTC may accidentally take a major step in boat safety.

Here are seekers after God. They are anxious and determined. They want in... will those doors open? Is it any use to knock? Jesus said, "ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you." Big locks and heavy doors will break open to those of great faith. Your child and mine need God; they need His church. God said to Joshua, "as I was with Moses so I will be with Thee." "Maybe He's here?" He said, "Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me."
